

The Trendsetter at This Year's WirtschaftsSchau

A mix of high tech and tradition is the image presented by the separation technology experts at Flottweg at this year's WirtschaftsSchau in Vilsbiburg. In just about 50 m², the Vilsbiburg team shows the driving force of their success, without neglecting the Bavarian atmosphere.

Flottweg SE will showcase the new industrial centrifuge C2E at this year's WirtschaftsSchau. This centrifuge was specifically developed for the clarification of wastewater in small to medium-sized sewage treatment plants. Since its recent sales release, test machines are already on the way to locations around the world, and one system has already been sold in North Rhine-Westphalia.

In addition to the technical innovations, however, Flottweg will also be ready with all sorts of information about the company itself. Visitors can get a look at the working world at Flottweg and learn about the latest job offers.

And a look at the working world naturally also includes apprenticeships. In the tradesman's tent, apprentices in different years will be available for questions. As another draw, visitors can also have their names engraved on pens or bottle openers.

But even with all these impressions and information, the pleasant atmosphere is also a must. This year's Flottweg Booth will feature a beer set to encourage pleasant togetherness and chats. Visitors will be able to enjoy fresh beer on tap from the Flottweg Separator.
